Petersen, Twice Ousted As Detective Captain, Is Ordered Reinstated

BACK WAGES WILL BE PAID TO OFFICIAL

Civil Service Board Decides in Favor of Former Chief, Who Made Three Years' Fight Against Dismissal

Colbourn Awaits Legal Notice Before Permitting Him to Return to Status in Local Police Department

Walter J. Petersen, former chief of police, has been reinstated in his civil service position of captain of inspectors.

The reinstatement came about last night when the Civil Service Board sustained Petersen in his appeal against the twenty-one charges made by former Commissioner F. F. Morse in 1920.

According to President John F. Chambers of the Civil Service Board, Petersen will receive his pay from the time he was dismissed until his employment by an outside corporation.

A full official verdict of the Petersen case will be issued by the Civil Service Board in a few days, according to Chambers.

Petersen, it is believed, will return to duty in the reorganized police department, headed by Chief Drew. Petersen has only a year or so to serve until he is eligible to retire on pension.

Colbourn Awaits Official Notice

Commissioner Frank Colbourn, who succeeded F. F. Morse, said this morning that he had received no official communication from the Civil Service Board concerning Petersen, and therefore can make no statement.

"I will, of course, obey the decision of the Civil Service Board," said Colbourn.

Police officers are awaiting the arrival of Petersen with interest, for as captain of inspectors he will be in direct touch with James T. Drew, the chief of police. Petersen will relieve Captain of Inspectors Richard McSorley, who has been acting in his place since Drew was elevated from captain to chief, vice the late Fenton Thompson.

Petersen's reinstatement marks a new chapter of one of the most bitter fights in the political history of Oakland. The case has occupied the limelight since the arrival and Petersen's return to the city.

DENIED OLD JOB ON RETURN FROM WAR

When war was declared the officer took an indefinite leave of absence from the police department and organized and headed a battery of artillery attached later to the 142d division. He returned from France a colonel.

On his return Petersen stated that Commissioner Morse had promised him a return to his former position as chief of the department. He was installed as captain of inspectors and then the trouble had its inception.

From that time on the Petersen case has been in and out of the courts. He was dismissed by Commissioner Morse from the position of captain of inspectors. He appealed to the Civil Service Board and the appeal was denied.

Petersen then took the case to the courts. From the lowest to the highest he fought the decision of the Civil Service Board and the commissioner, and ultimately on September 12, 1920, appeared at the city hall armed with legal jurisdiction.

RETURNS TO OFFICE ON COURT MANDATE

He bore with him a mandate from the supreme court ordering the commissioner to restore him to his position as captain. The commissioner obeyed the command but at the conclusion of one day's work as captain of inspectors the battle was renewed.

Commissioner Morse presented Petersen with a notice of dismissal on twenty-one counts. He was charged with:

Responsibility for the disappearance of dope from the police department of the city.

Responsibility for the disappearance of guns and pistols.

Responsibility for secreting property of private persons in private lockers in his office.

Accepting presents and gratuities from various persons in violation of the laws and the rules of the department.

Agreeing to furnish intoxicating liquors to various persons.

PERMITTED GAMBLING MORSE CHARGED

Permitting gambling and lottery houses to be operated.

Refusing to give testimony in criminal courts.

Attempting to "frame" graft proceedings.

"THIRTY MINUTE TALES" BY AD SCHUSTER

THE BASS VIOL

"I DON'T pretend to know why it is," said the snare drummer sagely, "but there is always something queer about a fellow who plays the bass viol."

The cornet turned with him to look at old Butters, tuning his huge instrument and nodding. "Ours takes the cake," he agreed. "Does anybody know where he came from or anything about him?"

"Better ask," the snare drummer put in, "if anybody ever saw him spend a nickel. Say, he's the slickest guy who ever sat in this ditch, and that is delivering a sizable oration."

"They tell me," volunteered the first violin who had been listening, "that Butters used to have a good job. Got shoved out by a relative or because of his age. Guess it made him sour. He's a good musician, though, so why should you birds ride him?"

Butters had nothing to say to his fellows. He never missed a performance rehearsal and never voiced his disgust at playing over and over again the jazz pieces which accompanied the snare and bass viol. He was a vaudeville circuit. There were some who said he did not get enough to eat and it was noticed that he made his clothes give the last hour of wear and walked to and from the theater. No one knew where he lived.

It was the talkative drummer who tried to sound the old man was a snare drummer. "It's none of my business, but why do you ever act like one of the orchestra?" Except for you this is a kind of family party. I don't want to see you in a vaudeville circuit. $2,000,000 BUILDING ON DEPOT SITE

Athens Athletic Club Votes to Construct a New Home at Fourteenth and Franklin; S. P. Will Cooperate

Railroad Terminal and Offices Will Be Included in Structure; Six Stories to Present Limit of Plans

A six-story club and office building, to cover an entire block and to be, in addition, a center of the Eastbay transportation interests, will be erected, as soon as plans can be rushed, at Fourteenth and Franklin streets, where the Southern Pacific now has its downtown waiting room.

Decision to this effect was reached last night when the membership of the Athens Athletic Club met in the ballroom of Hotel Oakland and, by unanimous vote, chose the site for their new building. The deal represents $3,000,000 and the building, in itself, will cost in the neighborhood of $2,000,000.

Plans for the building include features which will make of it a model for organization structures for the country. An immense lobby through which the Southern Pacific electric trains will run, stores with street and lobby entrances, mezzanine accommodations for specialty shops, swimming pool, special facilities for offices of large companies seeking large floor areas, a roof gymnasium with running track, tennis courts, handball courts and other facilities, and a few of the outstanding attractions.

RAILROAD TO OCCUPY OFFICES IN BUILDING

The decision of the club was made unanimous after Judge Everett Brown, who spoke for the Congregational church site downtown, made the motion and after a vote showed an overwhelming majority in favor. Fred Reed spoke for a site at the southeast corner of Twentieth and Broadway.

The vote stood, for the site selected, 426; for the Congregational church site, 76; for the Twentieth and Broadway site, 55. The Brown motion, after the count had been announced, was carried with enthusiasm.

Calling attention to the many municipal improvements being made in Oakland and the city's progress Mayor John L. Davis made a brief address expressing his approval of the club's decision. H. C. Capwell said the action of the meeting made the club building a certainty and offered his congratulations to the membership.

The site of the structure, which will be started as soon as the plans can be made and material obtained, is bounded by Fourteenth, Thirteenth, Franklin and Webster streets. Corner offices at Thirteenth and Franklin will be used by the Southern Pacific and other transportation companies will make of that side of the building a center of their activities.

The back of the building to face on Franklin street is to be used as an office structure with special attention paid to supplying large connecting offices for corporations whose factories are in Oakland and whose offices, because of inability to find the kind of offices demanded, are in San Francisco. In the Webster street half the Athletic club will have its elaborate and complete quarters. There are 60,000 square feet in the block which is 200 by 300 feet.

SWIMMING TANKS AND BATHS IN BASEMENT

In the basement, which will be excavated under the streets, will be swimming tanks, steam room, baths and a large garage, all connected with the building by automatic elevators. On the top floor there will be a large ballroom, a billiard room and a large lounge.

The site of the Southern Pacific, which is to occupy the space under the tracks, will run. Elaborate plans for the denaturing of the sound of the cars, twelve elevators, a subway under the tracks, smoking and lounging rooms, are provided for.

On the roof will be a concrete fire wall, high enough to break the wind and inside the running track and handball and tennis courts. It is planned to build the tracks of the Southern Pacific, which is to occupy the space under the tracks, will run. GIRLS ARE ACCUSED IN STORE LOOT

Four Employees of Capwells Alleged to Have Taken Goods of Great Value by the Use of Clever System

Silks, Fancy Articles, Laces Chief Articles Stolen; Some of Those Blamed Said to Have Confessed

Mysterious thefts of goods to the extent of many thousands of dollars in the past year at the H. C. Capwell department store came to light today in the issuance of warrants for the arrest of four girls, employees on charges of petty larceny.

Two girls have been arrested and released on $25 and $50 bail respectively. They are Maybelle Van Bell of the glove department, of 695 Thirty-first street, and Felicia Brown of the lace and trimming department, of 2608 Seventy-fifth avenue, who denied she had stolen anything, but admitted, the police say, that she received stolen goods.

The other two girls who are to be apprehended are Lulu H. Hall of the silk department, of 2534 Damuth street, and May Tafamell of the silk underwear department, of 1554 Mozart street, Alameda. The police announced that the arrests would be made tonight.

Inspectors William Emigh and Joseph Enright, armed with warrants issued on the complaint of Thomas King, house detective at Capwell's, sought the girls at their several homes today.

For the past year there has been a heavy shortage in the fancy goods department of the store, according to O. D. Hamlin, counsel for the store, and it was finally decided to conduct a rigid investigation.

EXAMINATION SHOWS MANY GOODS MISSING

"When we checked up at the end of the year and found that enormous amounts of goods were missing," said Hamlin, "we realized that the normal wastage and shoplifting would not nearly arrive at this, and set a trap for the employees."

"For a month we maintained a careful watch on all employees as they left the store at night. Detectives were engaged under King to shadow the girls, but the search proved fruitless.

"Meanwhile the garments continued to disappear. Bolts of silk grew short over night and the whole silk garments varied in such proportion to the new system of watching was inaugurated.

"We set traps for the girls during the noon hour and discovered after several weeks the system by which they were conducting their wholesale peculations.

METHOD OF GIRLS PROVES SIMPLE

"Its simplicity was baffling. The girls at the noon hour leave for their lunch period by one door. The take, for example, the glove counter girl, would go out through the proper passage and through the afterward make her appearance at the main entrance.

"This time she would walk past the floor managers as a customer. The glove counter girl would then go to the silk counter and examine the silks there. She would ultimately be handed a package and would leave the store.

"In this package would be silk in various amounts running from a few dollars to many. As the glove counter girl operated, so did the girls working in co-operation with her. At their lunch period each would appear at the counter of the other and receive the loot.

SUSPECTED GIRLS GIVEN VACATION

"Once we learned the system it was a comparatively easy thing to make the capture. The four girls suspected were notified by the police before last night and were not to be needed when to return. This order was delivered by Leslie Dinkelspiel, employment manager. After their dismissal the girls were visited individually by King and myself. Confessions followed.

According to Hamlin, the girls said that they used the stolen goods for themselves and their families and friends.

The girls were unable to estimate the amount of the loot they secured. Warrants were issued for petty larceny, as the store officials have no evidence that more than $50 in goods was taken at one time.

The store was unable to state just what the thefts had amounted to in the aggregate, but admitted that the loss ran into thousands of dollars. Hamlin is associated with Donahue, Hynes and Hamlin.

The girls will be arraigned in the police court on Monday morning.

fulness today that no small building had been started to stand in the way of the larger project. The price asked by the railroad for the land, it is agreed, is a nominal one.

Pajamas in Court

Valentino Evidence

Lawyers Argue Case

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—(By International News Service.)—The purple and white pajamas, the "Chinese suits" worn by Rodolph Valentino and Miss Winifred Hudnut, his bride, while on their honeymoon, were dangled in the faces of the judge and a curious crowd of spectators just before the film star's hearing on a charge of bigamy was completed today.

On these garments, declared by the prosecution witnesses to be pajamas and by Valentino to be Chinese suits worn as over garments, apparently hinged the fate of the accused motion picture actor.

"The pajamas, 'Chinese suits' is one big bedroom," declared Attorney W. I. Gilbert, as he presented the garments to the court for inspection.

Pajamas ARE ONLY EVIDENCE OF DEFENSE

The suits composed the entire evidence offered by the defense after Deputy District Attorney James P. Costello had announced to Justice J. Walter Hanby that the prosecution had completed its case.

Following the presentation of the pajamas to the court, Attorney Costello made a motion that the charge against Valentino be dismissed.

"I am surprised that the district attorney should not ask that the charge against the defendant be dismissed on his own motion," declared the defense attorney.

"Therefore, I ask that the court dismiss the case on the ground that there is insufficient evidence for a holding."

Arguments by Defense Attorney James were started after Deputy District Attorney Costello, in answer to the court, said he wanted to argue the case. Chief Defense Counsel Gilbert opposed this on the grounds that the matter was already argued and that the matter was already argued.

POLICE SEEK FOR DAMAGED CAR

The police are searching the bay district for a partly wrecked automobile, the most important clue yet uncovered in connection with the murder of Mrs. Anna Wilkins and her husband, Henry Wilkins, Tuesday night. The shooting occurred at Nineteenth avenue and Moraga street.

A report was made to the police yesterday by J. P. McCabe, proprietor of a drug store at Hayes and Cole streets, that an automobile containing three men crashed against the curb at Fulton and Cole streets about one hour after the holdup. The car had rounded the corner at top speed.

The car was the same type as that driven by the bandits and the three men answered the descriptions of the men.

McCabe and his wife noted the license number of the machine, but when they reported the matter to the police they remember only the first three figures, 583, which are said to correspond with the first three figures on the license plate of the bandit's machine.

The machine was towed away by a wrecking car.

The sum of $3410 has already been raised in the drive to raise $10,000 as a reward for information leading to the capture and conviction of the bandits. The money is being raised in a drive conducted by the California State Automobile Association and the San Francisco Motor Car Association.

President Urges Ship Subsidy Bill

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(By International News Service.)—President Harding called Republican leaders of the House into conference today and told them that the ship subsidy bill must be passed at the present session of Congress.

The leaders, including Speaker Gillett and Representatives Campbell, Mondell, Green and Townner, promised to get the bill reported from the merchant marine committee within the next ten days and to make every effort to jam it through the House.

They told the President, however, that a poll of the House indicated considerable opposition to the bill and that it will be a difficult job to get it passed.

Husband of Mrs. Anna Wilkins Was to Have Filed a Reply to Separate Maintenance Day After Killing

Partially Wrecked Car Being Sought as Clew to Trio of Holdups Hunted as Slayers of Woman in Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—A new and sensational angle to the murder of Mrs. Anna Wilkins by one of three automobile bandits on Tuesday night in a lonely section of the Nineteenth avenue boulevard, was discovered by the police today. They learned that she had brought an action for separate maintenance against her husband, Henry Wilkins, with whom she was riding when slain.

The suit against Wilkins was filed on May 8 last through Attorney Albert I. Loeb. It contained startling accusations.

Mrs. Wilkins asked for $150 a month maintenance, reciting that on May 1 her husband took her to the offices of an attorney in the First National Bank Building and asked her to sign papers which would give him a divorce. This she said she refused to do.

On May 15, 1921, at their home, 1540 Vallejo street, she sets forth that her spouse, while intoxicated, struck her and that on one previous occasion, January 2, 1920, while in a similar condition, he had blackened her eye.

'GRAY SHADOW' KNOWS SECRETS OF CHINATOWN

Phone Booth Plays Part in Trade in Dope That Wrecks Lives.

By TORREY CONNOR.
She was somebody's sweetheart, once upon a time. This drab shadow, that haunts Oakland's Chinatown. If you saw her a year ago, you remember, now, that there were lingering traces of prettiness in the refined face; and that the outward clothing, when she was seen, was chosen with taste. What is she doing here?

Here in the Chinese quarter of Oakland is a chop suey restaurant which caters to the white trade. White men are back of the enterprise that is ostensibly carried on by Chinese. If you have the "inside dope," you will understand why the police keep an eye on the restaurant.

There is nothing about the place to invite the casual visitor. It is a bare room, and it faces boldly on a street in which a human tide ebbs and flows, the sides of the sea. The very publicity would seem to disarm suspicion. But for its visitors.

CHINESE BILL OF FARE.
You walk into a bare room, decorations arranged "American style." You sit down to a table on which a dusty paper flower in a near cut-glass vase is the only ornament. You pick up a menu card, on which is inscribed the following bill-of-fare:

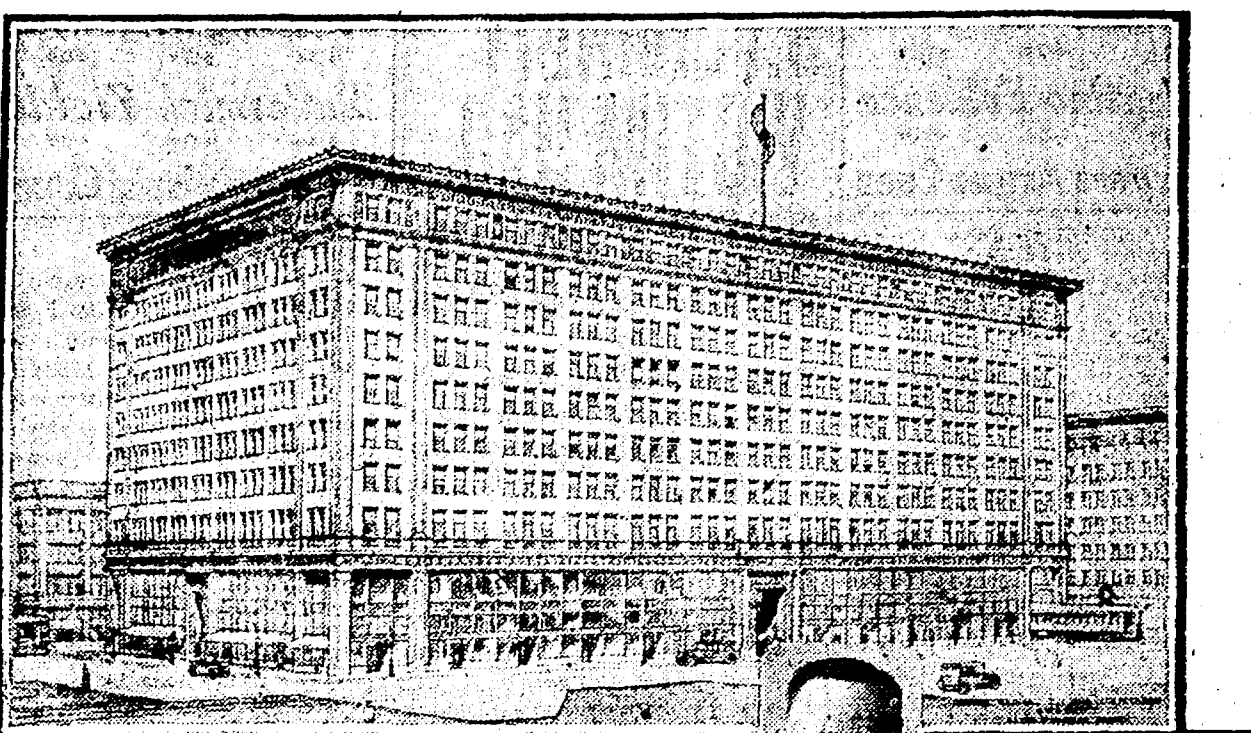

"Chicken and white mushroom soup; hain bamboo and mushroom soup; chicken chop-suey with tomato, with green pepper, with shrimp chop-suey; chicken with pineapple, with almonds; fried rice with shrimp and eggs; chow min; yetta min; mar tai chow; bean sprout chow. Omelater (write) cash duck, lobster, shrimp, roast pork, and so on.

Before your curiosity as to the merit of Chinese foodstuffs has led you very far into the bill-of-fare, a customer who challenges your attention comes in. You wonder how the glorious climate of California could be libeled by such a creature—pallid, eyes as the eyes of a devil fish, lips blue, pinched, as if the shadow of the Chinese quarter. The woman walks with a curious, shuffling gait to one of the tables; sits.

room. In a moment you are listening to grating inharmonies which set your teeth on edge, and give you a violent distaste for further adventuring in search of Chinese "local color."

Meanwhile the woman, again seated, is served with Oolong tea, and waiters. But a spirit of unrest seems to possess her. It is very evident that she is not listening to the "music" for which she paid a nickel. She takes three sips of tea, beckons the attendant, who, mercifully, turning off the dying gasps of the infernal machine.

She wishes to know if there is a telephone booth in the place. She goes into the booth, the door of which is concealed by a tall curtain. She remains but a moment; and emerging, goes out into the bright sunshine of a June afternoon.

Five minutes later you remember that you have not ordered the chop suey for dinner. You go to the phone booth behind the screen, and are confronted with a placard: "OUT OF ORDER."

If you have the inside dope, you pay no attention to the placard. You put a quarter and five cents into the proper slots, at the same time. An aperture an inch wide and three inches long will automatically open in the rear wall of the booth.

Mayor John L. Davie suffered a severe attack of acute indigestion last night which, it was feared for a while might result seriously. His condition this forenoon had so improved, however, that he was able to resume his official duties.

Mayor Davie was taken ill after a meeting which he attended last evening of the Athens Athletic Club. At his own request his physician, Dr. Eugene Barbera, had him removed to his chambers in the city hall where he remained the rest of the night. By noon today he had lost all evidences of his sickness.

Realty Men Adjourn; Next Meeting at Cleveland

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—The fifteenth annual convention of National Real Estate Boards, which has been in session here since Tuesday, closed this afternoon. Many of the delegates will remain until Monday, in order to take advantage of the sightseeing tour and entertainment in the Eastbay district tomorrow.

Yesterday Cleveland was chosen unanimously as the site for the 1923 convention of the national association.

During the four days the real estate operators from all parts of the United States and Canada were in conference in San Francisco important steps were taken to solve various problems confronting the large cities, industrial centers and agricultural districts of the nation.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.
L. F. Enoch of Denver, Colo., was chosen to head the organization as long-term president, and N. J. Upham of Duluth, Minn., was elected short-term president. W. H. Ball of Philadelphia and W. E. Lyons of Kansas City, Mo., were made secretaries for long and short terms respectively, and Hiram S. Cody of Chicago was given the post of treasurer.

Irving R. Hiett of Toledo, president of the national association for the past year, in addressing the general convention in the main hall of the civic auditorium, declared that the problems solved at the San Francisco meeting were of utmost importance to real estate men throughout the land, and expressed the general sentiment that Californians had been royal hosts to the delegates and their families.

Real estate legislation, similar to that now in effect in California, was recommended for all states in the union by a committee headed by John J. Wagner of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Delegates were urged to interview legislators of their respective states and to point out the great protective advantages of the license law system as perfected in this state.

Society Tom Ingersoll of Los Angeles pointed out that only fourteen other states in the union have laws for the protection of the public against the real estate sharp and crooked dealer.

ZONING OF CITIES.
The importance of zoning in large cities was touched upon by President Hiett at the general session. He stated that municipalities have gradually realized the advantages to property holders and home builders resulting from an intelligent zoning system.

That the newspapers of the country always are ready to co-operate for the public good, devoting entire sections to development articles pertaining to home ownership, was the point of an address by Ogden A. Confer of Confer Brothers, one of the largest real estate firms in Minneapolis, delivered before the National Association of Real Estate Boards, meeting here.

For the real estate world, are for these papers," said Confer. "From a business standpoint we look upon them as opportunities for intensified selling drives, which put our salesmen on their toes."

Confer pointed out the breadth of scope of a sales plan, set forth through columns of newspaper advertising. "A staff of salesmen might carry their message to fifty individuals in a day, whereas at much less expense the attention of a thousand times that many newspaper readers may be attracted," he stated.

"I suggest that this association of realtors appoint a committee to consider ways and means of getting behind a program of educational propaganda. Personally, I would advise an advertising and publicity campaign in the leading newspapers of the country, with the additional circulation of the idea that the state associations could, at

PETERSEN WINS HIS BATTLE FOR REINSTATEMENT

Civil Service Board Orders Him to Be Restored as Detective Captain.

Abusing uniformed officers for performing their duty. Hindering and obstructing officers in performance of duty. Illegally holding the position of captain of inspectors.

Attempting to prevent the hearing of alleged graft and corruption charges. Making false statements on graft conditions to the newspapers.

Bringing the name of the police department and the city into disrepute by false and unfounded statements of graft and corruption. Embarrassing the administration by personal opposition and through local organizations.

Maintaining intimacy with gamblers and crooks. Alleged personal misconduct. Participation in political activities contrary to law.

Alleged hiring of newspaper reporters as press agents. Other acts of misconduct.

The filing of these charges marked the reopening of the battle royal which was to continue until last night.

Captain Petersen forthwith appealed to the civil service board for re-instatement. The charges were taken up. Months passed in the business of taking testimony. Each meeting was enlivened by passages at words and arms.

Then when the matter was ready was decision two of the incumbents in the civil service board finished their terms, leaving John S. Chambers as the only member. Those who retired were Ralph Beebe and Major Harry Huber.

Appointed on the new board were Sophus Nelson and Walter J. Hesse. Soon after the appointment the new board took up the case again. It was decided that according to law all of the testimony must be reviewed. Finally the board decided to read the transcript. Another delay was caused through the stenographer's failure to find the transcript.

Before a decision was arrived at Hesse died suddenly, leaving only Nelson and Chambers on the board. New legal rulings were sought and it was finally decided that in the event that the two members agreed, the decision would be legal.

Captain Petersen meanwhile has been engaged by the Shipowners' Association of San Francisco. Whether or not he will resume his position for which he has been fighting for nearly three years has not been learned.

the scenes the old man was paid off. He smiled as he took the money. "It was going to resign pretty soon anyway," he said with dignity.

BUTTERS stopped to buy bread and dried beef at a delicatessen store, then he climbed the stairs to his room, dragging the cumbersome bass viol with difficulty. Inside he let it fall heavily into a corner, tore the paper off his packages, and ate eagerly. He looked at the money, counted it carefully and checked off some days on the calendar.

"It will do," he said. "Ted will be home by then and we'll buck it together." Without undressing he dropped on the bed and fell asleep.

When Ted came home it was from college and with a diploma. Wondering, he climbed the stairs of the new address his father had sent him and almost fearfully he opened the door. There he stood around the room, reading a story in each poor detail, and then down at his own tailored clothes.

"Dad," he sobbed, shaking the other into a happier wakefulness. "Dad, you old bluffer, why didn't you tell me you had lost the job in the bank?"

SENATE FIXES ARMY STRENGTH AT 133,000 MEN

Appropriation Bill Passed in Record Time Carries $341,750,000

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEARNED WIRE TO TRIBUNE. WASHINGTON, June 3.—Carrying an appropriation of $341,750,000, the annual army appropriation bill was passed yesterday by the Senate. It fixed the size of the army for the next year at an average of 125,500 officers and 133,000 men.

Passage of the bill, which was without a record vote, followed quickly after a test vote, by which the Senate accepted, 49 to 21, its committee's action in increasing the House figure of 100 to 133,000 enlisted men. The strength of 125,500 officers compared with 11,000 as voted by the House.

MAKES TIME RECORD.
The Senate disposed of the bill speedily, the measure being taken up for the first time and passed within six hours. All committee amendments except those affecting the size of the army were acted upon within three hours, constituting what was regarded as almost a record by the Senate.

The measure now goes to conference with the House, but it is not expected that the discussions will begin before Tuesday.

Next to the question of the size of the army, the proposition causing most debate was the amendment submitted by the agriculture committee appropriating $7,600,000 for continuation of work on the Muscle Shoals project, which the Senate accepted without a record vote after a preliminary tangle which lasted for an hour.

DELAY CALLED CRIME.
The Muscle Shoals amendment promised for a time to reopen the whole question of the government's policy with respect to the power project, but Chairman Norris of the agriculture committee declared that no policy had been determined and that to delay work further on the project would be a crime.

Although the army strength agreed upon by the Senate was regarded as a compromise between the House and the Senate, the war department and the House, senators expect a hard fight before an agreement is reached with the House.

PARTY LINES BROKEN.
Party lines were broken when the test vote was taken. Nine Democrats voted with the Republican majority in upholding the Senate committee, while six Republicans were counted in the negative. Democrats voting for the 133,000 army included Ashurst, Cerry, Healin, Hendrick, Myers, Sheppard, Smith, Underwood and Williams. Republicans who voted against the proposition were: Borah, Capper, Ladd, LaFollette, Norris and Willie.

In opening debate on the army bill, Wadsworth declared the committee believed "rock bottom" had been reached and that to make further reductions would imperil not only the army organization as contained in the reorganization act of 1920, but create a menacing situation for the country in event of unforeseen troubles. It would be "utter folly," he added, to "mangle the skeleton" of the army so that it could not be revived in an emergency.

Wadsworth referred to the sea-coast fortifications, saying only 25 of the 75 were now manned and that a further cut in the forces would leave an additional ten or a dozen in the hands of caretakers.

Senator Hitchcock, Democrat, Nebraska, replying to this statement, contended the country would approve a cut in the army even below the present strength. "Our army is efficient. It is able to do more than the work it has to do now. What the people want is relief from the burden of taxes and they would be willing to take a smaller army to get that relief."

AVIATION HERO SHOT TO DEATH IN LOVE AFFAIR

Tragedy at Kansas City Hotel Comes as Climax to Passionate Intrigue.

By HARRY CAYLOR.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 3.—Frank Anderson, world war aviator hero and superintendent of the Jones department store, was shot to death in a Midwest hotel room here today by a woman who, police said, was Marie L. Beals, a nurse of Springfield, Ill.

Police and guests who crawled through the transom of the room following shots, found the girl lying beside the dead body. She was seriously injured with a self-inflicted bullet wound in her side and her silken night garments as she.

Miss Beals shot Anderson as the climax of a passionate love affair and then attempted to take her own life, authorities declared. A list of three names of women in Philadelphia, Chicago, Fort Wayne, (Ind.) and other cities all over the country was found in Anderson's effects.

The list ended with the name of "Peg," believed to have been his pet name for Miss Beals.

LOVE NOTES FOUND.
Love notes with passionate passages, declared to have been signed by Anderson, were found.

"Dearest girl, Blue Sky and Sunshine—Hurry to me," said one letter addressed to the girl in a Colony hotel at Springfield. The letter also stated that Anderson had joined a club here, "so I can take you into the best homes in Kansas City."

The girl was declared to have told Mrs. Alice Leonard, Anderson's landlady, yesterday, that "my husband has not been the same to me lately."

Miss Beals told Mrs. Leonard she and Anderson had wed in a little Illinois town two years ago.

The chapter, "Hall of Doom," began.

"The room was empty save for herself and the still form of him—Jedak of Lothar—lying there at her feet."

At the hospital, the woman, by words of her head told reporters she was not Anderson's wife, but declared he had promised to marry her.

Police declare they believe Anderson is a son of a prominent Cambridge family.

In the room, where the couple was found, were scattered newspaper accounts of murders and of "lethal triangle" cases.

The story of Perry Joyce, "escapade" and of the men who were infatuated with her, were among these.

The baby was placed in an infant's home in East Oakland before the police found out where the mother was. The warrant charging her with child abandonment was sworn to by Police Inspector Kyle. When the case came before Judge Tyrrell he turned her over to Miss Ella Flynn, assistant probation officer. Since then Judge Tyrrell has been trying to secure a home for the youngster and the mother.

Amundsen Carries Planes, Radio in North Pole Drift

SEATTLE, June 3.—(By The Associated Press.)—When Captain Roald Amundsen's exploration ship Maud sailed from Elliott Bay here today for her long voyage through the ice packs of the uncharted north polar basin, one of the most complete and extensive scientific expeditions ever undertaken in that region got under way.

The expedition is a resumption of the effort, begun by Captain Amundsen in 1918 under the auspices of the Norwegian government, to drift past the north pole by ice floes, to study the meteorological and oceanographical phenomena of a vast area never before visited by white men and to secure data which the explorer expects may revolutionize present theories of the earth's interior.

The first effort met with delay because of the weather, and the ship, after a month's drift in the Siberian coast and was forced to put into Seattle for repairs. Recently the vessel has undergone complete overhauling and a theoretical equipment, including two airplanes, a long range wireless outfit, and many precise scientific instruments has been added to the complement.

PRIMARILY SCIENTIFIC.
The expedition, Captain Amundsen has repeatedly declared, is primarily a scientific one, and while the ship is carrying a large number of men, the object of the voyage is to discover the south pole in 1911—the study of ocean and magnetic currents, the drift of the ice pack and movements of the air will be his first objective.

Special investigation will be made to determine whether land exists in the neighborhood of the pole, as some oceanographers, basing their beliefs on modern shifts in polar ocean currents, have maintained. Much attention will be given to the ocean itself, and through holes bored in the ice scientists will endeavor to measure the depth of the water, direction and strength of submarine currents, and take samples from different levels for chemical analysis.

TWO AIRPLANES, WIRELESS.
The two airplanes—one capable of carrying nine passengers and the other a three-seater—and the wireless outfit, the explorer expects will be important items of the vessel's equipment.

"The eyes of the ship"—he will make an intensive exploration of the huge area, of most a million square miles covering the "roof of the world." The larger plane will be used for the more extensive investigations, while the scout plane will fly the immediate vicinity of the vessel.

By means of the wireless equipment, Captain Amundsen expects to keep in touch with the world and expeditions to aid measurably in forecasting weather conditions throughout the globe.

Every precaution has been taken to guard the expedition against the twists of fate in the Arctic that often in the past have caused the failure of explorative efforts and resulted in tragedy for those who took part in them. Captain Amundsen

ROSIKRUCIANS ARE HELD ON U. S. DRY LAW CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—Three distinct violations of the prohibition law are charged in an information filed in the United States district court yesterday against Dr. Carl H. M. Gardner, pontiff of the Rosikrucian church, and Albert Nuwoner and Gus Ucker, members of the congregation.

The complaint enumerates illegal possession of liquor, possession with the intent of sale, and the sale of liquor in violation of the Volstead act.

It is alleged that the liquor was stored at 50 Jackson street, and that it was withdrawn on pleas that it was to be used by the members of the congregation for sacramental purposes.

The suit is looked upon as being in the nature of a test case, placing the onus on the defendant to prove that the sect of Rosikrucians constitutes a legitimate church, and was not founded merely to defeat the purposes of prohibition.

Theodore Bell, attorney for the Rosikrucian congregation, said that after he had examined the public records, constitution and laws of the church, he had advised Dr. Gardner, who had advised the Rosikrucians to obtain and supply his members with sacramental wines.

SYMON IS SUED BY BROADHURST

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.
BALTIMORE, Md., June 3.—Counsel for George Broadhurst, New York playwright and theatrical producer, who yesterday caused the arrest of John B. Symon, wealthy business man of San Francisco, on a charge of violation of the high seas aboard the steamship Colombia, filed suit in the Superior Court today against Symon for $50,000.

Neither Symon nor his counsel would discuss the case. The attorney, however, said Symon would remain within easy distance of Baltimore to respond at once to any call requiring his presence here.

In the declaration the dramatist recites that he sailed from the Pacific coast on May 5 last, and when the vessel was nearing Havana on May 26, he was attacked and his badly beaten by Symon that his life was despaired of.

Symon yesterday was released by a federal commissioner under $5000 bond for the action of the federal court.

At the hearing Broadhurst testified that Symon attacked him because he had objected to a disturbance in an adjoining stateroom occupied by Symon.

STALLED TRAIN HALTS TRAFFIC

"The Missionary," Santa Fe train No. 322, bound for Chicago, was delayed for an hour today, and traffic along San Pablo avenue was tied up for a time, when the cylinder of locomotive No. 1232, which was drawing the long train out of the station at Fortieth and San Pablo, blew out. While the damage was minimal, it necessitated putting the engine in the shops for repairs.

According to the theory of G. Dennis O'Hara, consulting engineer of San Francisco, who witnessed the mishap, it was caused by failure to open the pet cocks of the cylinder, thus allowing water to get in.

BERKELEY, June 3.—The big wedding which friends of Miss Ruth Burton and Charles R. Watts Jr., both well known in college and social circles, had looked forward to since the announcement of the engagement of the couple last September will not, materially, be a surprise. MEXICAN REVOLT TALES DOUBTED

MEXICO CITY, June 3.—(By The Associated Press.)—Stories of plans for a revolution in Mexico with General Felix Diaz as the leader are discredited in official circles and by the newspapers.

If Diaz is in Mexico, as implied in dispatches from New Orleans last night, his presence has not been reported to the war office and it is thought he still is in the United States, as advised from New York that he had been seen there in the last two days.

The Obregon government has no apparent fear of an insurrection headed by Diaz, and treats his rumored activities as mere propaganda returned in the United States by enemies of the administration.

RICHMOND, June 3.—Farmers of the Middle West and East are having a hard time, according to E. V. Shirley, inspector of the Richmond police department, who has just returned from a tour of the month's visit in Kentucky and Indiana. Shirley visited relatives in Indianapolis, Ind.

The past two months' visit in Kentucky and Indiana has been so far below expectations, in many cases far below actual cost, that the general run of farmers are now planting only as crops as promise a fairly safe margin of profit.

OPTIMISM IS ANSWER GIVEN TO ALL PROBLEMS

Cyrus Crane Willmore of St. Louis Tells Need of Confidence.

Optimism is the answer to all of the problems now confronting the nation. Cyrus Crane Willmore of St. Louis, International president of the Oakland Optimist club assembled at the Hotel Oakland yesterday afternoon.

"The trouble with everybody today is," said the speaker, "they do not have the spirit of optimism and do not have the feeling of confidence for their fellowmen. Capital and labor don't agree because they haven't a nickel's worth of confidence in each other. If they would meet together and lay their cards face upward on the table and deal with each other as they wanted to be dealt with, they could soon settle their grievances."

"In this age it is the fellow with faith and courage who succeeds." Willmore gave a brief history of the Optimist organization, saying that it was started seven years ago, but first put on a firm footing three years ago. He declared that in ten years Optimist clubs would be the biggest thing of their kind in the country.

He concluded with an appeal for delegates from the local organization to attend the International convention, which will be held in Kansas City on the 28th and 30th of this month.

Guests at the luncheon included William R. Marshall of Los Angeles, district governor of the Ninth district, International Optimist Club, and Jack Martin, president of the San Francisco club.

Never, Russia's Betty Baxter, social chronicler of Washington, has anyone been so "honized" at the international capital as have the officers and men of the British cruiser Raleigh, which is paying a few days visit there. In making this statement, Miss Baxter does not except even the Prince of Wales and King Albert of Belgium—and she gives the program of the past week to prove her assertion. Putting Depew in His Place

There was a big dinner on one night in London and Chauncey Depew, then at the head of the New York Central system, was to deliver the principal speech. Joseph Choate, then our ambassador to the Court of St. James, sat at the guest table flanked on either side by a serious-minded member of the British nobility, neither of whom had even been to America.

As Senator Depew got into his swing one of Choate's neighbors, the one on the left, said to him: "Your fellow-American is a most captivating speaker, eh, what? Curious I never heard of him before. To what station in your American life would you assign him?"

Choate's gift of humor was brightest on the spur of the occasion.

"The Grand Central station," he replied promptly. "Ah, yes, I see," spoke up his neighbor on the other side, "what we call in England the great middle-class."

Uncle Wiggily Stories by HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE JENNY BIRD

"AREN'T you forgetting something, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Nurse Jane. Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning as the bunny gentleman was about to hop out of his hollow stump bungalow.

"Forgetting something?" repeated Mr. Longears, with a queer little pinkie of his twink nose. Oh, please excuse me, I mean a cute little winkie of his quink—dear me, that doesn't sound right, somehow!

Well, anyhow, Uncle Wiggily said:

"Do you mean I forgot to kiss you goodbye?"

"Well, I think you were going to—nearly!" laughed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "But aside from that I meant you seemed to be going to forget the crumbs for the birds. You know you generally take some crumbs to scatter to the hungry birds, and—"

"Dear me hum suz dud and a popcorn ball full of chocolate cake!" cried the bunny gentleman. "I did forget about the crumbs. Give them to me, Janie, and I'll hop through the woods, look for an adventure and feed the hungry birds."

So Uncle Wiggily, having kissed Nurse Jane goodbye most politely, hopped over the fields and through the woods.

"Here is a cool shady spot where I may rest, and I will scatter some of Nurse Jane's bread and cake crumbs on the ground," said the bunny uncle to himself as he reached a quiet, dingly-dell in the middle of the forest. He sat down on a green, mossy log and leaned his head against a tree. Then he scattered crumbs on the ground.

A moment later a cute little brown bird, with a rather a long bill, fitted down out of a tree, and, twitching his head and tail about, began picking up the crumbs.

"My! such a busy little bird as he was. He had bright, sharp eyes and strong claws for so little a bird, and with his strong claws he scratched the leaves about to find the crumbs hidden beneath them."

Uncle Wiggily, with a smile on his jolly face, watched the little brown bird. Soon he sang a song, and another little brown feathered creature flew down and also began picking up crumbs.

"Oh, ho! There's a pair of you!" chuckled the bunny. "May I ask your names?"

"This is my wife Jenny," answered the first bird. "In name is Wren, and I am called Jimmy Wren."

"I'm glad to meet you," spoke the bunny. "Um Uncle Wiggily. Do you live around here, Mr. and Mrs. Wren?"

"Yes, in that tree against which you are leaning," answered the Jenny bird. "In fact," she said, with a little laugh, you have your head over our front door. Not that my husband and I mind," she added, "for we are in no hurry to go in."

"My head over your front door?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily quickly. "Bless my pink nose! I didn't know that!" He moved his head, and saw a tiny hole, not much larger around than a twenty-five-cent piece, in the side of the tree.

"Surely that tiny hole is never the front door of your house?" said the bunny.

"Yes, it is, Uncle Wiggily," chirped Jenny Wren. "You see we are very small birds and we have the finest nests of any birds, except perhaps the humming birds. We must have a place with a very small door, so the sparrows and other bad birds can't get in and eat my eggs. Yes, indeed, Jimmy and I can easily get in that hole."

And as Uncle Wiggily's head was out of the way then, the two Wrens flew in their front door and out again, just to show how easily they could do it.

"Quite remarkable! Bless my tall silk hat, but it is very odd!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Well, Jenny bird and Jimmy bird, here are some more crumbs. Now I must hop on and have an adventure."

Uncle Wiggily hopped on through the wood, but he did not have any adventures. Much disappointed, he was on his way home to his hollow stump bungalow when he again reached the dingly-dell and sat down to rest on the same log. But he was careful not to put his head over the tiny hole that served as the front door to the Wrens' home.

"I guess the Wrens have flown away to get something more to eat," thought Uncle Wiggily as he sat on the log.

Suddenly the bad Bob Cat came sneaking through the woods.

"Ah, ha! I have caught a rabbit!" snarled the Bob Cat, and he sat down on the log beside Uncle Wiggily, with his ugly head close to the Wrens' front door.

"Please go away," begged the bunny.

"Not until I nibble your ears," snarled the Bob Cat.

"Oh, don't nibble my ears," begged the rabbit uncle.

"Yes, I shall!" snarled the Bob Cat.

"Oh, ho! Will you? Well, we guess not!" sang two voices, and out of their tiny hole in the tree—a hole the Bob Cat never noticed—flew Jenny Wren and her husband. They flew in and out of the Bob Cat's ears, tickling him so hard that he had to laugh whether he wished to or not. And after he laughed he caught the hiccoughs and then he couldn't nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears. For you know, as well as I do, that when a Bob Cat laughs and hiccoughs he can't bite.

"Run away, Uncle Wiggily! Hop fast!" said Jenny Wren as she and her husband kept on tickling the Bob Cat's ears. And the bunny hopped safely home, very thankful to the birds for having saved him. And then Jenny Wren and her husband, having tickled the Bob Cat all they pleased, flew in through the tiny door of their tree house, and the bad chap couldn't get them. So he had to sneak back home.

And if the wheelbarrow doesn't make the sunflower shine in the face of the pansy so she sneezes, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the Robber Bird.

POOR BALL IS PLAYED
BEHIND BUZ ARLETT;
SEALS WIN ANOTHER

Local Infielders Are Letting the Transbay Tossers Get Away With Trick Plays.

By EDDIE MURPHY

Big Buz Arlett made his second start of the series on the hill against the San Francisco Seals yesterday afternoon, and his teammates played poor baseball behind him to let the Seals get away with an 8 to 5 beating. Things are not working out any too well among Ivan Howard's athletes, and their defeat yesterday was the seventh in eight ball games. Howard hoped to get better results out of his boys yesterday by switching the batting order around, and placing "Frenchy" La Fayette in the clean-up position. The Oaks, with the exception of La Fayette, seem to be in a poor batting slump and until they are able to snap out of it, things are not going to be any too cheerful for Ivan Howard. But the batting slump is not the only thing that is beating the locals. They have not been playing the kind of baseball that wins ball games. An error or some poor play is worked into each contest to help the opposition in getting away with victories.

Jim Scott opposed Buz Arlett on the hill yesterday and both hurlers were nicked for ten base hits. The Seals piled up a four-run lead before the Oaks managed to break into the run column. It was a home play on somebody's part in the second inning when the Seals scored their first run. With one out of the way, O'Connell beat out a hit. He stole second on a single. George Winn took the hill for the Oaks in the eighth, and the Seals got a run off him because of a misplay by Brubaker and Kopt made both in the eighth.

The Oaks' managed to keep the Seal fans worried from the seventh inning on, as they forced Jim Scott to shoot easy in the last three frames in which he piled eight of their ten runs.

The hitting of LaFayette was the only thing that kept the Seals

ond and continued on to third base when nobody covered second base to take Art Koehler's throw. Koehler had to have an average error on him. Kopf and Brubaker have been crossed up a couple of times this week on plays around second base. Wednesday they both started after a ball that Bob Georg hit to first base. Both failed to go through with the play of fielding the ball, and it rolled over second base to centerfield as two runners

Trick Plays On Oaks.

The third inning saw the Oaks the victim of another trick play as the Seals have worked on them several times during the series. With one out of the way, Bert Ellison connected for a double. Jimmy O'Connell was the next batsman, and he hit a ball, causing Ted Cathlamet to rush in from third base as Ted left the bag. Bert Ellison stole third base while standing up, not a play being made for him.

In the sixth inning the Seals got two more runs and again the infield was the victim. Pete Compton singled off with a single. Kidford drew a walk and Bert Ellison laid down a bunt for an intended sacrifice, but all hands were off the sacrifice. Some Oak soldiers tried to throw the ball to first base. He followed the tip and there was not a chance of getting Ellison. Jimmy O'Connell fanned. Here is Hal Rhyne again, and he lays down a second bunt. In the game, LaFayette fielded the ball with no chance to get Compton at the plate, but plenty of time to get Rhyne at first. Konf failed to cover first in time. Rhyne got off on an infield hit. Kidford scored on Walish's sacrifice fly to Schulte, who, after making the catch, made a short run in the direction of the plate before he cut the ball loose.

Boxed for Koehler in ninth.

The Seals gathered three more runs in the seventh on four hits, and in that frame Pete Compton took advantage of Claude Williams' error to score. The game, 10-8, was over.

WALISH, Kidford, Ellison, LaFayette, Compton, Schulte, Rhyne, O'Connell and Casy were the players. Game 6: San Francisco 7; Oak 1. Score: 1-0. Time of game: 1 hour 45 minutes. Umpires—Byrne and Casy.

Approve Plans For Encinal Golf Course

with WESLEY HARRY
Presented by Marshall Netlan.
Also "The Leather Tappers," Round &
Tables and Review.

Congressional elections being held this fall,
 present members are mindful of the necessity
 of getting home to wage their campaign unless they are to be defeated for re-election.
 The Democrats realize that the tariff schedule is one of the important pledges of the Republican party and believe that if the tariff law
 is not passed before the elections foundation
 will be laid for the charge that the pledge has been broken. Republican Senators on their part realize that the completed tariff law would be a good credential of service to take before
 the voters this fall; hence the outspoken warnings of Senators McCumber, Lenroot, Watson,
 Pepper and others.
 In such a situation as now prevails, the wisest course for all the Senators is to remain on the job at Washington until the tariff and merchant marine bills are passed. All are needed there. They cannot greatly help their campaigns by running away and complaining against the tactics of their opponents. Not one percent of the arguments on the tariff bill will affect the views of the Senate; no larger proportion is directed by the debaters to the changing of views and votes. The other ninety-nine percent is pure obstruction.
 Application of the cloture rule would leave
 sufficient time for the utterance of all honestly conceived argument. The Senate can enact the tariff bill this summer if it resorts to cloture.
 If it continues under unlimited debate
 the tariff law probably will go over to the next Congress.

THE SENATE SITUATION.

The tariff bill has now been debated in the Senate for forty-five days and the committee
 amendments to only two schedules of the House draft of the bill have been disposed of.
 At this rate of progress it is impossible to predict when the tariff law will be enacted.
 One Senator has expressed the belief that the Senate would finally enact it in the early part of August, but this view can be little more than a creditable hope.

While the country has given signs of much impatience with the Senate situation, the more promising sign is that the Senate is beginning to evidence dissatisfaction with itself. Over a third of the Senators must face election this fall and practically all of them must also go through a primary campaign in advance of the general election. This has resulted in a desire of these Senators to get home and some of them have already left Washington.

The direct result has been charges of absenteeism in the face of pressing national business and revelation to the Republican Senators remaining on the job that absenteeism
 is aiding obstructive tactics of the minority
 opponents of the tariff and other legislation.
 Chairman McCumber of the Senate Finance Committee, who is in charge of the tarriff bill, lectures his colleagues weekly on their failure to attend Senate sessions and thus expedite business. His primary election takes place on June 28, which gives his impatience
 the flavor of political concern of a personal character. Senator Watson of Indiana, who is not a candidate for re-election, declared a few days ago that Republicans are not standing up to the job they were elected to carry out, but this severe rebuke has not served to keep Senators in their seats. Even Senator Johnson of California, who so far has no opposition for the primary nomination, has announced his intention to come home in the immediate future.

Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin and Senator
 George Wharton Pepper, one of the new members of the upper chamber and the successor to the late Boise Penrose of Pennsylvania, are more vigorous in their complaint against inaction than either Watson or McCumber. Mr.
 Pepper says a great party entrusted with the reins of government by a majority of 7,000,000
 votes is talking itself to death and is allowing itself to be jockeyed by the opposition into a dangerously defensive position simply because of the rule which makes for eternal obstruction. He believes the time will come when "Senators will be required to speak to the point and will be permitted to speak only for a limited time."

The rule which makes for obstruction which Senator Pepper complains against is the "unanimous consent" rule. This rule continually places the Senate upon the mercy of one member obstructively inclined and is the greatest time waster afflicting that body.
 While a Senator is supposed to be ready either to speak or vote on a pending question, the refusal of unanimous consent in practice always acts to throw a measure over to the next legislative day.

Added to the disabling power of this rule
 is the Senate's cherished tradition that the only limit upon the privilege of one of its members to speak should be his physical capacity, and the difficulty, due to inherent disinclination, to apply cloture to a pending debate.

These handicaps to expedition are not newly-created things. They have been in operation
 a long time. But it so happens now that the Democratic opposition is using them in every possible contingency to prevent constructive legislation and thus to interfere as much as possible with the constructive program of government of the Harding administration. These partisan tactics are impressively annoying at this time because of the importance of the tariff bill, the merchant marine bill and other measures before Congress; and because, also,

THE TABLES TURN.

Mr. Spiridon Merkuloff, that worthy adventurer which the Japanese War Ministry took over from the Russian convict colony of Saghalin and put at the head of the puppet government at Vladivostok which Japan created to collaborate with her schemes in Siberia, has been deposed by the Russian constituent assembly of Maritime province and placed under arrest. He has been suspected of responsibility for many crimes against Russian citizens. Occasionally the men murdered by his police agents were buried; more often they were left exposed to the elements. Unless the Japanese military command interferes Mr.
 Merkuloff will meet a stern sentence after an exceedingly brief judicial procedure.

The crimes of the Merkuloff regime which specially concern the United States were conceived and directed by the Japanese War Ministry and General Tachibana, commander-in-chief of the Japanese army of occupation in Siberia. They included the arrest of Major F. M.
 Clarke, a California citizen, member of the Inter-Allied Technical Board in charge of the Siberian railroads, on a trumped-up provocation invented by General Tachibana. Major Clarke was arrested at two o'clock in the morning in his private car, after a Japanese military car filled with Japanese soldiers had been attached to each end of it, stripped to his underclothing and searched.

Merkuloff also furnished four assassins for the hire of General Tachibana to follow Mr.
 Frederick McCormick, The Tribune's special correspondent in Siberia, to the Manchurian
 border and there make an attempt upon his life.
 He agreed to perpetrate outrages against other American citizens in Siberia.

The government at Washington not only permitted its consular representative at Vladivostok to deal with this creature; it retains now at Vladivostok Consul Macgowan who has confessed in his official reports that he had guilty secret knowledge of at least the crime against Major Clarke, that he consented to the outrage and permitted the search of this American citizen at two o'clock in the morning against a background of the Stars and Stripes.

Merkuloff is in jail and apparently is through with official place. American Consul Macgowan is permitted to remain at Vladivostok.

In the good old days there were village spendthrifts who habitually took their sweethearts
 to hear free lectures and see the circus parade.
 Now they take them to free radio concerts.
 Which again demonstrates that innovations
 come and go but certain human characteristics
 persist forever.

BACK TO ADAM AND EVE.

Major J. A. McEwan and Mrs. McEwan of London are looking for an Eden in England in which they may live the life of Adam and Eve. Major McEwan led the Black Watch at Vimy Ridge; his courage needs no further indorsement. He is seeking for his experiment a spot beyond the reach of the curious. His understanding of one difficulty modern imitators of Adam and Eve must overcome is thus disclosed. Adam and Eve had the great advantage of pioneering an idea. They were not pursued by photographers, interviewers or health
 food cranks anxious to use them for advertising purposes.

It is a hard job that Major and Mrs. McEwan have set for themselves. They start seriously han-capped. Adam and Eve had the great advantage of knowing nothing about world wars, of automobiles, or radio, or electric fans. While they were in Eden the problem of the flapper never bothered
 Eve. The endured life, enjoyed it indeed, lacking many things their descendants have become accustomed to use and abuse. Consequently Adam and Eve did not miss the things Major Mc-Ewan and his wife are going to miss. The question the Major and Mrs. McEwan must face is whether they are going to be able to put the conveniences of conventional civilized life out of their minds along with its inconveniences. Perhaps the irritating factors of contemporaneous existence
 which have driven them to the experiment they are about to try have obscured some of the conveniences of modern life which they accept without due thought.

If Adam and Eve were alive now, and still in the garden, they might be willing to swap places
 with Major and Mrs. McEwan. —New York Herald.

Let's be humble in the face of
 All the problems we must meet;
 If we pose we are but mummies,
 If we brag, we're indiscreet.

"Why the sudden rush of virtue?
 Why this new and chastened
 flow?"
 "Nothin', 'cept a wireless taught me
 There are things I do not know."

Not the least heroic act of Sergeant York was that of turning down the vaudeville offers.

As men are measured, oftentimes
 We rate ourselves as lax;
 We do not give a tuck a dunt
 If Mattie marries Max.

The fact is given publicity, as if it were a distressing one, that some States are spending more for chewing gum than for education. It is our belief that most everything,
 from politics to luncheon clubs,
 could be operated with increased satisfaction and complicity if there were even more of the gum
 and less of the education.

We might turn to the authorities
 for support, to Spinkewintz, for instance. He has held somewhere in his voluminous notes that the tendency of modern education is to rob one of the freedom of choice.
 "It steers us toward a preconceived goal," were his words, "molds us to the pattern of the pedagogues' selection, and stamps us like so many cans for milk bottles, all alike, except for the lettered date
 which warns of that time beyond which they shall turn sour." It is difficult to follow the Spinkew-intz in line of reasoning, he wanders into so many by-paths, but one cannot help but endorse his closing remarks: "In the matter
 of gum, now, as opposed to education, the choice is restored, initiative excited, and independence
 made possible, for, with chicle a man, or a maid, may do as he chews."

And so we come out on the platform: "More chewing gum and less education." If men may be trained to chew gum there may follow a discovery the exercise is sufficient, that there is no need for oratory. With less education one will suffer less with an uncon-
 fortable realization of obligations,
 he will stir less uneasily when the play or the scenario violates all the canons of art and decency, and will tolerate jazz and those infinitely worse adjuncts of blare and moans called "blues," with greater fortitude. He will fashion his ideals of stuff at hand.

We ask no support from personal friends in this campaign of gum versus education, all we wish
 is the backing of those who are heartily in agreement. If we go down fighting it will be in a good fight, gum will be on our platform
 and our friends, we hope, will stick.

 tial than the impulse to wiggle
 whenever she hears jazz music.
 She says one Ernie Young, her manager, forced her to dance to syncope music so much that she has lost control of her muscles and now, day or night, willing or unwilling, come what may,
 whenever the saxophone sounds

NOTES and COMMENT

The New York Herald on Dem-psey's possible vanquisher: "Should Fitz, the young Argentinean with a wallop, train on so as to become a formidable rival of Dempsey for heavyweight honors the present day sporting world would be turned topsy-turvy. That Fitz has the physique and the brute force necessary for a pugilist of the first rank
 is admitted by the experts, who say that New York has seen no
 such puncher since the palmy days of Fitzsimmons. Whether he can be taught to use his strength to advantage is another matter, and will depend largely upon his tutor."

The Oregonian compares scenery
 at the mouth of the rolling Columbia with that of Golden Gate: "San Francisco bay may have its Golden Gate, but it cannot compare with the gold at the mouth of the Columbia. Aided on the low sands to the south and clinging to the towering bluffs to the north is a glowing blaze of Scotch broom,
 visible as a yellow cloud from the sea. It seems like cruising into a fairy harbor to enter the great river of the west at this time. The highways to Seaside are lined with the mass of gold and this is the right time to see one of the real good sights of the Pacific, for nothing can compare with the bloom in bloom."

The Oregonian summarizes the Genoa conference: "All the world,
 except Lloyd George and the British Parliament, regards the Genoa conference as a failure. Its purpose was to pin the Soviet government
 of Russia down to the principles
 on which men have bought and sold, invested money and worked to produce goods since the beginning of civilization, and then to provide Russia with capital and skill with which to revive production and trade. The Soviet refused to accept these principles.
 Lloyd George attempted an impossible compromise, France and Belgium declined to assent, discussion was adjourned to The Hague,
 and the United States declines to attend."

There are discords and discords

 alludes to one: "Cincinnati's Symphony Orchestra, losing Eugene
 Sayre for temperamental reasons,
 gets another Hungarian, Fritz Reiner, as director. It might have tried an American for a change,
 but the town has foreign tastes

JUST FOLKS
 By EDGAR A. GUEST—
 THE READ GARDEN.

He showed me round his garden
 and the lawn was green and sweet.
 It was like a rug of velvet, soft and
 springy to the feet;
 And the pansy bed was lovely, and
 the peonies straight and fair—
 But there wasn't any laughter of the children ringing there.

The roses stood in order and were beautiful to see,
 I heard him sound the praises of a
 fine old maple tree,
 But beneath its spreading branches
 was no patch that should be bare,
 For the swing of happy childhood
 had not ever dangled there.

There were blossoms rich with color and the gardener named
 them all,
 But they'd never known the havoc
 of a little fellow's ball;
 There were blooms of rare perfection which require man's constant care,
 But there wasn't any symbol of a youngster playing there.

Now, my lawn is poor and barren
 and my grass is hard to grow,
 And it struggles for existence, for
 the youngsters tramp it so,
 And my garden seems untidy, but I fervently declare
 That to me its greenest beauty is
 the children playing there.

"A FELLOW BY THE NAME OF ROWAN"

Five days after the war with Spain began, Andrew Summers
 Roan of the Regular Army landed from an open boat in Cuba, and carried a message to General Garcia, commanding the insurgent forces. It was an important message, giving the Cuban leader the information that enabled him to co-operate with the United States against the Spanish army. Rowan had to get through the Spanish lines and find Garcia. It was a difficult and perilous mission. Rowan did it with the matter-of-fact efficiency he had learned at West Point twenty years before, and Elbert Hubbard made the exploit famous in his "A Message to Garcia."

Although he had been in the Army since 1881, at the time he went to Garcia, Rowan was only a first lieutenant. He retired in 1909, a major. He was never decorated or rewarded, for, although General Miles recommended him
 for a medal of honor, no medal or decoration for this sort of exploit existed then.

But tardy recognition is to be made of the man who did an impossible thing so bravely, well, and Secretary of War Weeks has recommended that the Distinguished Service Cross, a decoration authorized during the Great War, be awarded to Major Rowan.

Certainly. And what a reward. But a decoration equal to that bestowed
 on him by Fra Elbertus years ago,
 translated into many languages
 and read all over the world, is something that no Government can ever hope to equal.—Worcester

About YOUR HEALTH

Why Hard Food Helps
 To Keep the Teeth Healthy.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health,
 New York City.

Toothache and trouble with the teeth are among the most common
 of human miseries.
 It is told of a famous English
 statesman who was speaking to the King that his false teeth dropped out. As he clapped them back into his mouth, the diplomat said:
 "Your Majesty, they trouble us
 from infancy to the grave."
 The gums cover the tooth-carrying part of the jaw. Likewise they grasp and surround the teeth. Like a collar they encircle the neck of the teeth.

When the gums and underlying structure become inflamed and
 pus-producing the condition is called
 "pyorrhea."

As we grow older the gums are pulled away from the teeth and may recede considerably. Under these circumstances, unless great care is exercised, pyorrhea may develop. It is serious, not only because pus absorption is not a safe
 thing to have, but because the softening and absorption of the tooth-
 supporting tissues permit loosening
 of the teeth.

To keep the gums healthy great care must be exercised. If food is packed between the teeth and left there till it decays, the way has been prepared for infection of the gums. It is absolutely necessary to cleanse the teeth and the spaces between them. Neglect of the toothbrush is sure to end in disaster.

Poor dental work, where fillings
 are not ground down and polished
 properly, may result in irritation of the delicate tissues and the formation of pus.

Certain systems seem to have a pre-disposition to the deposit of tartar on the teeth. If this is permitted to accumulate it may push the gums from the teeth and prepare the soil for infection. Excessive acidity of the mouth secretions
 is said to be a factor in tartar
 formation.

Poor health, associated with poor
 circulation, will leave the gums
 with less vitality and make pyorrhea possible. Anything interfering with vigor of body must have
 its effect in producing lowered resistance to disease in gums or elsewhere.

Then when pyorrhea is actually established and the pus from these unhealthy gum tissues begins to be taken into the stomach with the food, or, worse, the general
 health must suffer.

The gums are healthiest when most used. "Spoon victuals" do not make for healthy gums. Your teeth should be used to grind crusts of bread and other hard food. The gums keep hard and firm by normal
 use.

Inquire where there is a capable and conscientious dentist. Make the dentist your friend and have him advise you about your teeth.
 Don't wait till you have the toothache.

Your teeth need inspection at least once a year and once in six months is better. Cavities should be attended to when they are little and then they can be filled without pain. Even though there are no cavities the teeth should be cleaned
 and polished, the tartar should be scraped off and the teeth put in first-class condition at regular intervals.

Childhood is the time to begin dental work. If the teeth of the child of school age are kept in perfect repair he is likely to have good teeth as long as he lives.

Business and real estate men attach unusual importance and significance to the visit of the delegates and plans have been completed for according them a characteristic Eastbay district welcome, at the same time showing them what the district possesses in natural scenic, commercial and civic attributes. It will be the first post-convention event of the national association and the real estate boards of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and Hayward are determined to make it memorable.

It is expected that approximately 700 automobiles will participate in the auto caravan. WELCOME AT U. OF C.

At the Greek Theater President Emeritus Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California will extend a welcome as the principal spokesman for the university community.

J. Henry Wolcott, in charge of the Berkeley committee on entertainment, has arranged an augmented program for 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the amphitheater. Through cooperation of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce with the realty board more than 100 automobiles have been procured in the city for the "caravan."

Roy Young of Knowles, Porter & Young, has charge of this committee.

Through cooperation of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce with the realty board more than 100 automobiles have been procured in the city for the "caravan."

The visitors will come into Berkeley via Claremont, a scenic and exclusive hill residential district and end up for the main welcome and entertainment at the Greek Theater. From there the "caravan" will continue out through the business district and return to the automobile ferry in Oakland.

Regarding the entertainment of the visiting real estate men President James McCrosson of the local realty board said:

"Berkeley has the natural attractions for homes, business and industrial enterprises. We cannot afford to overlook our hand with such an assemblage of noted guests. After the bustle and rustle of this national convention these delegates and their families want diversion. We intend to give them entertainment of a high standard, such as fitting to our municipal standard and in keeping with the Berkeley atmosphere."

OLD SPANISH HOSPITALITY IS REPEATED

Fred E. Reed of the General Committee Says That the Eastbay of Today Is As Hospitable As in the Past

By FRED E. REED,
Chairman of Eastbay Day.

Tomorrow we welcome the brightest brains among the nation's realtors.

To the citizens of the Eastbay it is important that these visitors shall carry away with them lasting impressions of our people and our communities, of our industrial and commercial activities, of our potentialities in business, industrial and residential properties.

The Eastbay committee has arranged a scenic automobile tour for our guests. And we have prepared an old time Spanish barbecue as the best means of extending the visiting realtors and their friends a truly California welcome. It was the way of the Spanish dons, first civilized settlers in California and of the Mexican grantees who followed them. It was the way of the '49ers and it is our way.

Tomorrow we have the opportunity of selling the Eastbay to the nation's realtors. Their impressions, carried back to their home communities, means much to us. It means future citizens. It means increased business. It means additional capital invested in Eastbay business and Eastbay real estate.

Let us make the most of this opportunity. Let us, as one, join in extending the hand of fellowship of friendship to our guests tomorrow.

No sales will be made and no attempt will be made to sell. The visitors will be shown over the property and every particle of information available furnished them. Elaborate maps have been prepared and the markings on these maps are in accord with the markings on each lot and plot, so that the prospective purchasers can easily identify the pieces that they want to purchase.

This property is well known in Oakland, and it is expected that those who visit the tract tomorrow will have the idea of trying their luck in getting a bargain at the sale on Saturday, June 10.

By conscientiously urging employment of realtors only in the transaction of real estate business and by rigidly enforcing the principles implied by the professional title, the Real Estate Board is accomplishing for its professional group and for the community a service of mutual value and through the conscientious study and active participation in public affairs, is proving one of the vital and dependable factors in civic advancement.

WELCOME TO OUR VISITORS

President F. F. Porter of the Oakland Real Estate Board Invites All to the Great Eastbay District

By FRANK FLINT PORTER,
President Oakland Real Estate Board.

Realtors of the nation, we bid you welcome to the great Eastbay tomorrow.

We extend to you the hand of friendship. We like you and we hope you will like us. Our homes are your homes while you are with us, our communities are your communities for the day and we hope that some day you will come back to us to stay and be one of us.

Oakland and her sister cities present to you a field of vast possibilities. Our far-flung harbor is located on the continental side of the bay. The three great transcontinental railroads—Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Western Pacific—have their terminals here. Rail and water meet on natural ground.

Statistics have shown that our favored climate makes for more efficient workers. Likewise it makes for more healthy workers. The vast trade of the Orient lies at our doors. American ships are ready to deliver the products of our factories to the people across the Pacific.

Our hills and valleys offer the most ideal homesites to be found anywhere in the land. We are justly proud of our streets and highways, scientifically built, so aesthetically beautiful. We are glad to have you with us. We hope you will come again. We know you will carry away with you favorable impressions of the Eastbay.

Within less than a block of the car line that terminates at East Twelfth street and Fruitvale avenue and within a short distance of Diamond and the Hopkins street line.

There are only a very few plots in this tract and they will go rapidly. The sale will be under the management of Lawrence Block of the California Subdivision Company and will be held on the old Fruitvale warm belt. It is ground Sunday, June 11.

QUARTER-ACRES ARE POPULAR WITH BUYERS

A New Tract in the Heart of Fruitvale Soon to Be Opened.

The popularity of quarter acre plots has caused the owners of a number of small tracts close in to place their property on the market. The latest of these properties to be offered in this form has been named "Twenty-sixth Avenue Quarter Acres," in order to distinguish its location, and will be offered for sale on Sunday, June 11, by the California Subdivision Company.

This tract consists of a portion of the original John Spring homestead which fronted on Fruitvale avenue. The portion which is to be offered is that part facing on Twenty-sixth avenue and is in the center of the old Fruitvale warm belt. It is ground Sunday, June 11.

AUCTION SALE

of Business Lots, Home Sites and 1/4-Acre Tracts at

TOLER HEIGHTS
(Foothill Boulevard and 90th Avenue)

This valuable property, with street work in and paid for, has got to be sold for what it will bring, and every lot will positively be sold to the highest bidder, no matter what sacrifice such action may demand.

Then Think
If you buy property of this character at 30 or 40 per cent of its real value, with an initial investment of $50 to $100, and put aside $5 per month, is it not reasonable to suppose that before the lot is paid for that you could sell at 60 to 70 per cent of its value. Well, then, that is making money.

Well Bought Is Half Sold
If you buy right you can sell right. You can undersell the market and make money. Heretofore lots at Toler Heights have sold at $600 to $1400 apiece. At this sacrifice auction sale there is no schedule of prices to be realized, and it is safe to say that many of those lots will sell as low as $200 and $300 apiece ($20 to $30 cash, balance $5 per month).

If You Want to Make Money
Go look at this property tomorrow and judge for yourself its merits. Make up your mind what the lots are worth to you and attend the sale next Saturday and make your bid. The highest bidder in every case will secure a lot.

Go Tomorrow
By Auto
Drive out Foothill boulevard to 90th avenue. Toler Heights fronts the boulevard.

By Street Car
Take E. 14th street electric, transfer at 90th avenue to electric car direct to Toler Heights. Maps can be obtained at the tent on the property.

EL CERRITO IS OFFERED FOR WORKERS' HOMES

El Cerrito, a tract of land lying between Berkeley and Richmond, is being disposed of under a forced sale by the Realty Syndicate Company of Oakland. The territory adjoins the principal industries of both the cities, and for this reason, in the opinion of city building engineers, is destined to become the home belt of an army of factory employees. El Cerrito is within easy distance of the following big plants: Standard Oil Company, Pullman Shops, Certain-ty Product Company, Roofing Paper Factory, Porcelain Works, Peet Bros. Soap Company, Cedar Separator Company, and Hall-Scott Motor Company. Here the Proctor & Gamble people are erecting their $3,000,000 Crisco factory in which 3000 men will be employed, close to the Richmond harbor and other industries. Quarter-acre lots are being sold at $185 in El Cerrito on terms. This property will appeal to it is predicted to the factory employee, who wants to live within reasonable distance of his work and at the same time have enough territory around his house for small farming that will help pay the installments on his land. The soil of El Cerrito is suitable for strawberries, artichokes and all members of the berry family as well as Swiss chard, kale and chicken food. The position of the land is fine for the raising of chickens, pigeons, rabbits, etc. Educational facilities are excellent at El Cerrito. The Fremont Grammar school is three blocks from the property and street cars transfer directly to the University of California. The property is very close to the new and beautiful Berkeley Country Club, famed for its view in all parts of California. The new tract is reached from San Francisco via the Southern Pacific North of Loop train from Oakland, the San Pablo-Richmond cars, stop at the property just beyond the Alameda County line.

LEASE FRAUDS RUN DOWN BY REALTY DEPT.

Richard Jose, Chief Field Deputy, Is Securing Convictions.

The actual value of the State Real Estate Department to the people of California has been demonstrated many times, but never better than in a case recently before Superior Judge Roche in San Francisco. The proceedings before Judge Roche were simple, and consisted merely of entering a plea of guilty by Leland E. Spencer to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, of the sentencing of Spencer to a short term of years in San Quentin, and of the filing of a motion for probation.

But behind this simple proceeding was a story of trickery and double-dealing that was unearthed by the State Real Estate Department. Complaints had been coming to the Real Estate Department of a dealer in apartment house and hotel leases who was selling leases that he did not own and over which he had absolutely no control, defrauding the purchasers, generally women with only a little money, or elderly men. The matter was placed in the hands of Richard J. Jose, chief field deputy, who ran the case down and laid the guilt in Judge Roche's court with so complete a case that he pleaded guilty.

The particular case upon which the plea of guilty was entered was having sold the lease on an apartment house to Mrs. Caroline House when Spencer had no claim upon the lease at all.

This man, said Richard J. Jose, "would get someone with a little money, show them an apartment house or hotel and sell them the lease for any money that they happened to have, and then disappear, leaving the purchaser to find out that they had no claim upon the place. He actually took an old man to San Luis Obispo and showed him a hotel. The old man was satisfied, he gave him the lease, left the old man in charge and got out of town on the next train. We are breaking up every case of this kind that we can work out, and we are going to stop this robbery of poor people."

The Man Who Started the Department

RAY L. RILEY, first Real Estate Commissioner of California, and now State Controller.

When the State Real Estate Department was to be started under the law that the Oakland Board had done so much to promote, Governor William D. Stephens did not go into the ranks of the realtors for his first Commissioner. The governor chose a Colton druggist, Ray L. Riley.

Why the Governor went outside the ranks of the realtors for his first commissioner has never been known, but that he made a wise selection is now known to everybody, for Ray L. Riley has now become State Controller, and is facing the coming primary without an opponent.

The inauguration of the new department and the putting into effect of the new laws governing the real estate profession, was a job that called for great tact and courage, and it was possible that Governor Stephens felt that in the appointment of his first Commissioner there might be some professional jealousy if he picked from within the profession. There were some real estate dealers who opposed the department and the laws it was to enforce, and it was certain that the first enforcement of these laws would cause friction. Governor Stephens knew that the situation demanded a man of tact and diplomacy and Riley was chosen. Riley held the place for a couple of years and was so tactful in putting into effect the rather strict laws governing real estate agents, that he has behind him today the entire real estate profession of California.

Western Pac. Unites With Sacto. Northern

The physical connection of the Sacramento Northern and Western Pacific Railroads at Sacramento was accomplished last week. The railroad commission granted permission for the connection of the two railroads at "Front across 'Q' and 'P' streets, and the connections were at once put in. The Western Pacific is now connected with the Sacramento Northern, formerly the Northern Electric.

When Ray L. Riley was named to be State Controller the vacancy in the Real Estate Department was not easy to fill. As Commissioner Ray L. Riley had made such a record that Governor Stephens knew he would have to find some man of unusual ability if the Real Estate Department was to be kept up to the standard that Riley had set.

In selecting Edwin T. Kaiser for the place the Governor chose a man who has carried on the difficult job of enforcing the real estate laws with justice and firmness. Kaiser came from Southern California, the home of the real estate profession, and Kaiser was one of the profession. He has held the position for more than a year and has done much to root out crooks and to stabilize the profession.

BUY BUSINESS PROPERTY IN OAKLAND TODAY

Better than stocks and bonds—Better than mortgages. The sure growth of the City of Oakland is behind it.

Sixty-five new factories within the last year have added enormous population. A building record for 1921—over 60 per cent better than any previous year in our history—tells more of the story. 35 new water connections daily prove the increase in value we offer with this property.

It pays 7 per cent net on $40,000 today—under guaranteed lease for seven years. It's strong business property, in the up-town section of the down-town business district where recent increase in values has been rapid. Its future value will be enormous.

There's a cash bond on the lease. And the signatures on that lease represent $1,000,000.

The price is $40,000
